In spite of the sugar famine at Cynthia, JIM ALLEN is just as sweet as ever.

ONE of these days people will find out that THE LEDGER has all along known the exact size of TOM CAMPBELL.

AND the great and good TOM CAMPBELL has had his office furniture attached for failing to pay for printing his briefs in the Goebel trial.

WELL, well, well! And now comes a dagged Cincinnati Printer and attaches the furniture in Lawyer TOM COURTHOUSE CAMPBELL's perjury foundry for a bill of $298 which the dagged shyster refused to pay for printing his briefs and things in the Goebel trial. What a sweet-scented jimpson weed TOM CAMPBELL is, to be sure!

It has been decided that Louisville will make a determined fight to secure one or both of the National Conventions of the great political parties next year. The construction of the Louisville Coliseum, with a seating capacity of 15,000, has been fully decided upon, and the assurance has been given that the building will be completed within ten months, or earlier if necessary.

In a speech before the Democrats of Chicago, Mr. BRYAN devoted himself largely to an exhortation of Mr. CLEVELAND and a declaration that Mr. CLEVELAND's candidacy in 1904 is beyond all question. Mr. BRYAN's subject was "The Democratic Ideal," which, as a matter of course, meant nothing or none other than his own majestic self, for BILLY still swears that he is the great and only and everlasting Itky.

The only thing that TOM CAMPBELL is cocksure of paying is the Debt of Nature; and he'll even kick against that.

CAPTAIN C. C. CALHOUN had easy sailing yanking $71,000 out of Kentucky's Treasury "under the forms of law," but he'll have an L of a time beating FRANK BULLOCK for Judge of the Fayette County Court.

MR. CLEVELAND is now walking the floor and hunting paregoric for his new son;—too busy in fact to accept the Democratic nomination for the Presidency to which Mr. ROOSEVELT will assuredly be re-elected.

AND even such "metropolitan papers" as The Cincinnati Enquirer and Commercial Tribune didn't print the entire Republican State ticket until twenty-four hours after it was all over! THE LEDGER was the first Maysville paper to print the complete ticket, all the same.

It recently cost the Seaboard Airline Railway Company at the rate of $3,600 a dozen for a lot of superannuated eggs that one of its agents assisted in throwing at a Populist orator. If they had been thrown at a Democrat of Hon. JOHN G. CARLISLE's standing the whole matter would probably have been treated as a joke.

BUT it has already been demonstrated in the case of Mr. YERKES that something more than a gentleman at the head of the ticket is necessary for Republican success in Kentucky.—Louisville Times.

Verily, "dot's o, ain't it?" What is needed most of all is a rascally Election Commission which can outcount and outsteal the Democrats, and then a rascally Legislature that will forge and falsify its journals and certify that wrong is right.

At Evansville, Ind., eighty-eight persons charged with taking part in the recent riot, the looting of hardware stores, the charge upon the Jail and the attack upon the soldiers have been indicted by the Grand Jury. It is said that more than half of those indicted are Negroes. These outlaws—black and white—should be made to understand that an attack upon public buildings and upon the militia of a state is not a spectacular Fourth-of-July affair.

HOME TESTIMONY FOR HOME PEOPLE

When you are asked to take the word of someone unknown to you at a distance as to the value of an article it requires a stretch of faith. When you are told that someone in your own town—someone whom you know or can go to and verify the statement—says the article is all it is claimed to be, it gives it at once the stamp of honesty. This is the principle pursued with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills—fame testimony for home people.

Mr. H. H. Wallace of No. 28 East Front street, Maysville, Ky., says: "I have been for a long time troubled with severe nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and indigestion. Having read in the papers of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I thought I would try them. I got a box at Chenoweth's Drugstore and am pleased to say my nerves are strong and steady again—I sleep well—I am no longer bothered with those dizzy spells and my appetite and digestion are splendid. I am able as a consequence to recommend the medicine very highly to others who suffer in a like manner."

A TRIP Through the Wire Grass Fields of America!

An Industry Effecting An Annual Saving of Some $10,000,000 to American Farmers. After Five Years of Extensive Experimenting a Perfect Product is Offered for Sale.

The first headline succinctly states the subject of this sketch; the second aptly states the cause leading up to the writer's visit to the wilderness, and the third headline an opinion the result of personal investigation.

Leaving Maysville upon the early C. and O. train Wednesday morning, July 8th, the writer reached the wire grass fields Saturday afternoon, July 11th, after a long and most arduous trip. Leaving the nearest railroad station in a spring wagon, we drove over the roads made by the American Grass Wire Co. straight into the wilderness. Upon all sides of these "made" roads were reclaimed lands—lands formerly lakes and which by an extensive system of drainage had become sufficiently firm to bear up man or beast with proper precautions. Proper precautions are log shoes for horses and rubber boots for men. Log shoes are 18-inch square blocks of wood fastened to the iron shoes of the horses.

In these reclaimed lands grows wire grass, the most peculiar product of another earth, growing in land on which nothing else will grow; growing with a jointless stem and without a branch; growing in land without millet seed, wire grass is without nutritive substance and is absolutely impervious to insect or beast.

Green or dry, wire grass is useless as food. This grass is of a rapid growth, and as many as three or four crops can be cut each year. No artist can transfer to canvas the appearance of these grass fields. Walking over one of these fields it appeared to the writer that he was walking over a lake. With each step taken he could feel the earth tremble, and a slight breeze gave to this tremor the fold the appearance of a lake, the waters of which were rolling into waves. This wire grass growth is very luxuriant, and growing as it does without a branch or leaf, the wave effect created by a slight breeze is marvelous. While admiring this wondrous work of nature, assisted by man, the field trembled violently as in an earthquake, but the cause was only the passing of heavy draft teams wearing log shoes and dragging reaping machines, with which teams after acre of wire grass was being cut.

The wire grass, after being cut and laying on the mounds (from which the mounds of millet seed are cut by the company's system of drains, etc.) until wilted, is collected and bound into bundles by another especially constructed machine called a gleaner.

Traversing these marsh grass fields are "made" roads traveled by specially built wagons having six and eight-inch tires. Into these wagons the bundles of wire grass are loaded and hauled to sheds and there baled in an especially constructed machine into bales about twice the size of our baled hay. From these sheds immense teams haul the baled grass over company-built roads to the nearest railroad station, at all of which stations the company has warehouses 800 feet by 60 feet, into which the bales of grass are placed, there to await cars to transport it to St. Paul, Minn. At each station the company has offices, each of which is under a "bunkie" who attends to car service, freights, receipts for machines, supplies for camp, etc. Each of these offices is quite an establishment in itself, and employs quite a few clerks, as from this point the entire business of a whole town (camp) receives attention. Returning to the subject: Leaving this particular field the writer was driven over a company road to "Camp No. 1." The company has in active operation five camps, each of which is located upon an "island," called island because it is solid ground, and upon which grow trees, while the surrounding country is water and decayed vegetable matter. Reaching "Camp No. 1," a most interesting sight met the writer's gaze. Immense sheds, in which were stored hundreds of machines used in harvesting wire grass; commodious stables, in which stood more big, heavy draft teams than the writer had ever seen under one roof; long, airy buildings, sleeping quarters for the men; open sheds, open wash-room for the men, and last but not least kitchens and messrooms. By the time the writer reached the messrooms he was ready for supper.

"Camp No. 1" is an object lesson for any contractor whose contract calls for harvesting of his men. There was an abundance of good beef, pork and beans, corn bread, biscuit, tea, coffee or milk, beefs, potatoes, stewed currants and assorted cakes. Upon the writer's compliments the mess, the gentlemanly Camp Foreman explained that neither liquor nor cards were allowed in camp, in lieu of which they gave the men full stomachs.

"Camp No. 1" consists of forty wagons, several hundred machines, twenty-six dry sheds, several hundred horses and 240 men. The other camps are fully as large, and each camp has its own warehouse and offices located at the nearest railroad station, from which you will see that the large warehouse previously mentioned at the railroad station are but needed for the wire grass. The Superintendent and clerks in charge of the offices previously mentioned at the railroad stations are busy people, as besides looking after the shipping to St. Paul, receiving and forwarding camp supplies, they must also look after the maps, surveys, roads, telephones, etc., which they have made through this wilderness. Leaving "Camp No. 1," the writer was driven back over company road to the railroad station, there to take late train for St. Paul. In this connection it is interesting to note that each of these railroad stations have recently become villages, with hotels, stores, shops, etc., to take care of overflow business not directly under the company's Superintendents' charge. Arriving at St. Paul, the writer took a good and much needed rest and then visited the immense plants to which all these camps and warehouses forward their wire grass to be spun into binding twine. A description of these plants is impossible in limited space. Suffice it to say that here hundreds upon hundreds of follow belongs earn a splendid living. This is quite the busiest place imaginable, and the writer wishes to leave it to your imagination, because it beggars description. But this sketch would be incomplete without a description of the ingenious machines that spin wire grass into binder twine. The grass is first assorted into even lengths and then automatically carried on a large revolving wheel, onto which are fastened 100 pickers. These pickers are the shape of one's forefinger and thumb, and as the wheel revolves each picker automatically opens and closes, picking up one straw, and as the wheel further revolves the pickers open and drop this straw on a carrier, each straw dropped within a few inches of the end of another straw, thus preventing broken joints. This large wheel revolves slow enough to drop sufficient straws to make the required size twine before the automatic carrier reaches a funnel-shaped end that snags the straws through and twists them into twine.

When one realized that there are 340 of these large wheels and attachments in operation, you can readily understand the writer's remark, viz: "This is certainly the business end of creation." Leaving the twine mills, and with a further visit to the company's harvester plant and here all descriptive facilities fail. Suffice it to say that this plant gives employment to thousands upon thousands of mechanics, and covers acres and acres of ground. The capacity of this plant is 25,000 binders per year, to say nothing about the mowers and rakes. The company has three other large plants, but the writer did not visit them as his time was limited.

One thought that constantly recurred to the writer's mind and each time with renewed force was the patience, ability and financial backing required to perfect and market this product. We should remember that the Minnie Harvester Company sold no wire grass twine until after it had passed through all experimental stages, requiring a period of five years! Patience born of determination and backed by unlimited wealth could only accomplish the finale. Years ago, viewing the upwards of two million acres of wire grass which was utterly useless, they conceived an idea that it could be spun into twine to take the place of an expensive, foreign product for binding wheat. They built roads to get to these lands, they built a system of drains to get the water off; they designed and built special machines to cut and gather the wire grass; they built special wide-trail wagons to haul this grass; they built hundreds of sheds to store this grass whilst it went through the process of being spun into twine. They designed and built machines, men and beasts in the wilderness; they designed log shoes to prevent teams from miring in the field after water was drained off; they designed machines for baling the grass, they built immense warehouses and offices at the nearest railroad stations to store the baled wire grass until cars could be furnished to transfer it to St. Paul; they designed machines for spinning wire grass into twine and loaded them in magnificent plants in St. Paul!

Grass twine was a success. Patience had conquered seeming impossibilities. Every obstacle had been met by an iron will, but when this perfect American product was offered to large manufacturers of harvesting machines, they declined to use the product, notwithstanding the fact that it was only one-half as expensive as the twine they were using! Did this iron will qualify? No, there was never a quiver. They bought the Walter A. Wood Harvester Plant at St. Paul, admitted by all manufacturers to be the most complete harvester plant in the world, and designed, patented and built a binder of their own! Is this not an object lesson for us all? In free America, nothing is impossible. We may all be just what we desire to be. Patience and perseverance in the object sought for will win. From the wilderness has come an American product that can save American farmers $10,000,000 annually! Is it not a wonderful achievement?

The price paid for the steamer City of Wheeling is said to be $25,100. The boat has been operated at a loss in the Madison and Louisville and Cincinnati trade. It is said that the boat lost $9,000 in the trade while she was there. The operators of the Wheeling say that they will not abandon the trade, as they will shortly secure another boat to take the place of the one sold.

Meyers Ketchum, Chief Engineer of the Bonanza until recently, and in the employ of the Big Sandy Packet Company for thirty-five years, who has now reached the 79th milestone, is making his last trip on the Bonanza, and will then retire from the river to his home at New Richmond, O., to enjoy the fruits of thirty-five years of active service. His son, "Billy" Ketchum, takes the position made vacant by his resignation.

Captain E. A. Burnside of the towboat Robert P. Gilham sends a report of the condition of the channel of the Ohio river at Manchester Towhead. There is a sunken large about five hundred yards below that point. It will take 11 feet of water on the Portsmouth marks to cover it. The towboat channel is now close to the Kentucky shore from the Towhead to the foot of Manchester Island. Towboats are advised to keep to the Kentucky side of the wreck and stand high for about 250 feet to the Kentucky side. The Gilham grounded six barges at that place a few days ago, but succeeded in saving all but one. The coal is now being taken out of it.

CAUTION!
This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of Consumption and Throat and Lung troubles without losing its popularity all these years, you will be thankful that we called your attention to Hocke's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup—and especially for Consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25c size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75c. At Henry W. Ray's, next door to Postoffice.

Ripley—August 11; four days.
Manchester—September 2; four days.

A Chest that Came in the Mayflower

Is sure to attract the attention of every New England woman and with pride in her heart she marvels that it is so strong and well preserved. This is due to the fact that it has received prompt attention when any sign of weakening were shown. So the woman of to-day may keep her strength and preserve her good looks if she gives immediate attention to the first symptoms of any womanly weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription promptly cures disease and restores strength to all women who are weakened by any womanly disease and are run down by maternal and household cares.

$500 REWARD!
FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.
Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Prolapsus of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, PROPRIETORS, BUFFALO, N. Y.
Miss Stella Johnson, of 28 Brady St., Dayton, Ohio, writes: "I was troubled with severe pains every month when I wrote to you for advice. After following your directions I am happy to say that after five years of untold suffering I have not had any pains since first using your 'Favorite Prescription.' I thank God and Dr. R. V. Pierce for the health I now enjoy. I shall urge other women who suffer as I did to use your medicine."

WE HAVE

This day disposed of our drygoods business to Messrs. D. Hunt & Son, after a business career of 84 years, and take this opportunity of thanking our customers for their generous patronage, whose kindly associations will be long remembered by us. Some of you have been our customers through three generations. It is a source of regret to us to break these ties. Through the generosity of the Messrs. Hunt we will have our office at the old stand until August 1st, where settlements of accounts can be made. After that date all accounts will be placed in the hands of a collector. We bespeak for the new firm a generous share of your patronage. Very respectfully,

CLOTHING
TALK!sss

There is something about the Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothing by which you may identify them even more certainly than the label. It goes into them before the label. It is a style, a quality, a tailored-by-hand touch to them, a harmony of fabrics, trimmings, etc., a thoroughbred look about them never found in other clothing. The fact that we can't define it doesn't make it any less real. You can see it without fully realizing what it is. We can't show it or tell you fully about it until you wear the clothes. Then we won't need to. This incomparable line is for men and confined to us.

But we have provided as well for the boys and children. We invite inspection and comparison of both goods and prices.

OUR MERCHANT TAILORING DEPARTMENT, under the supervision of Mr. Charles F. McNamara, is the only one in the city paying Union prices and having all work done at home. Ask to see one of our made-to-measure Suits. You can get them cheaper elsewhere, but not like ours. Let us show you our new Shirts, new Hats, new Neckwear, etc., etc.

Cataract of the Stomach.
When the stomach is overloaded, when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves and causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called Cataract of the Stomach. For years I suffered with Cataract of the Stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kedol Dyspepsia Cure.—J. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by J. J. Wood & Son.

As You Like It

That is about the way The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York issues policies in these days of varied requirements in business and family life.
The postscript to a letter written by Mr. Ebe Walter, of Clarksville, Del., enforces this thought:

"The action of the dividend addition of $800, making my policy $1,300, or a total cash value of $607.10 are fully appreciated, but the settlement which I have chosen seems to be the best suited to my present circumstances."

What Mr. Walter did take was a dividend check for $196.98 on the paid-up policy of a $1,000, which cost him all told $448.02. He says:

The feature which I particularly like about my policy is that the longer I live the more I get and that during the balance of my life there is nothing more for me to pay.

(From Wilmington (Del.) News, Nov. 27, 1902.)

In writing for terms for a policy of this kind, state what you would like to receive in cash at the end of limited payment period, amount you would like your beneficiary to receive in event of your death, and give your age.
